Reasons for Allowance

Claims 1-3, 5-7, and 9-14 are allowable over the prior art of record.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the best prior art of record, Ho et al., taken alone or in combination of other references, does not teach or fairly suggest a field programmable gate array comprising, among other things, one of said logic head outputs of said logic head are output onto a plurality of lines of said interconnect structure through said output section, said output section comprising a plurality of output buffers corresponding with each of said plurality of lines, said output buffers receiving said one of said logic head outputs and driving said one of said logic head outputs onto its corresponding line; and a programmable switch that can switch another one of said plurality of output buffers from its corresponding line to a different one of said corresponding lines such that the logic head output is double driven onto one of said plurality of lines (claim 1); and the logic head further comprises: a first logic block having a first logic head input and a second logic head input as first logic block inputs, said first logic block providing a first logic head output; a second logic block having a third logic head input and a fourth logic head input as second logic block inputs, said second logic block providing a second logic block output; an AND gate having as one input a carry-in signal and as a second input said second logic block output, said AND gate providing an AND gate output; a third logic block having said AND gate output as a first input and said first logic head output as a second input, said third logic block providing a second logic head output; and a fourth logic block having a fifth logic head input as a first input and selectively said second logic block output or said third logic block output as a second input, said fourth logic block providing a third logic head output (claim 7), as set forth in the claims.
